BRAIN DUELS GAME!

Mad scientist enlists convention guests in the recovery and collection of missing brains so he can continue his experiments!

GENERAL INFORMATION:

This Game is a fundraiser for KNTR.

Each "Protective Equipment" Ribbon is $5. All proceeds go to Kids Need To Read a Non-Profit literacy program.

Purchase of Ribbon allows participation in the game and the ability to challenge for a Brain (Green Brain Keychain) as per the rules.

Purchase of the Ribbon also indicates acceptance of all game rules.

RULES:

- Displayed Ribbon (attached to Pass or clothing) is an indication of participation.

- Brains are meant to be stakes in a challenge.

Challenges consist of:

- Verbal challenge:

Example: "I challenge you for your Brain!"

- Discussion of Terms and Stakes (match stakes only). Example: 3 brains and a single game. Or 5 brains and two out of three. Or extra/substitute hand signals...Be creative and have fun!

- Game of Roshambo (Rock Paper Scissors)

- One on one duels only. A person who is challenged may indicate a Second/Champion to play the game on their behalf, but the stakes remain theirs.

- All participants may issue or be challenged - and must play if challenged.

- Please do not interrupt any Event, Panel, Workshop, etc. to issue a challenge.

- Staff members and some Special Guests will have the Brains at the beginning of the weekend/game.

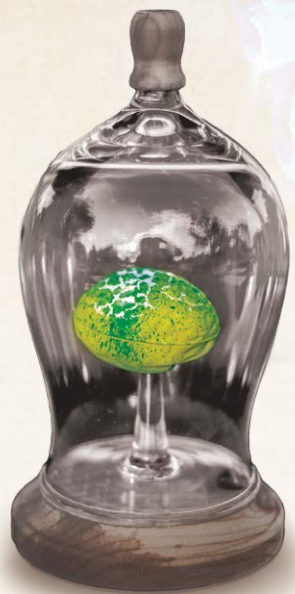

- At the beginning of the game, or if you lose all your Brains, the ribbon will indicate your ability to challenge other participants for a single brain.

- Brains must be kept within sight (available as stakes) and with the player at all times. No stashing your pile of brains in a bag, your car or gluing it to a costume.

- Rules adherence and participant disputes will be mediated by Guest Services. Any Guest Services staff member may act as referee if needed. Appeals go to the next highest level of Staff. The Guest Services Assistant Manager will have final judgment on all aspects of game play, and reserves the right to expel players for rules infractions. No further appeals.

- Challenges are allowed inside Rusted Gear (Old Tucson) and it's outlying areas, however; Guest Services will not mediate issues that arise outside of the park.

- Special Prizes will be awarded to the 3 players who collect the most brains at Convention Closing Ceremonies (scheduled for Sunday.) You must be in attendance at time of award to receive prize.
